Nationally recognized by the National Cancer Institute (NCI)

Seattle Cancer Care Alliance is a National Cancer Institute-designated comprehensive cancer hospital in Washington, Alaska, Idaho and Montana. The National Comprehensive Cancer Network (NCCN) is an alliance of 27 of the world’s leading cancer centers, including Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center/Seattle Cancer Care Alliance. It is an authoritative source of information to help patients make informed decisions about cancer care.

This coveted distinction is only awarded to hospitals that have an established track record of expertise and excellence and are recognized for advancing treatment to benefit other healthcare providers and the public.

Singular focus. Better outcomes.

With a singular focus on cancer, SCCA offers the greatest possibility of successful cancer treatment by:

- Providing state-of-the-art therapies and research.
- Joining the leading research teams and cancer specialists of Fred Hutch, Seattle Children’s and UW Medicine — a unique collective of experts driven by the pursuit of better, longer, richer lives for our patients.
- Providing a multi-disciplinary cancer care approach, including diagnostic, surgical, medical, chemotherapy and radiation therapy.

But perhaps the greatest patient benefit is our higher 5-year survival rate for almost every cancer type than patients treated at other medical centers.

Tomorrow’s treatments today

Seattle Cancer Care Alliance represents a union of patients and doctors, physicians and researchers, care and cures. It is this uniquely bold and inventive approach that truly sets us apart.

We treat care differently. And, because of that, we see patients differently, too. Our care combines powerful science with devoted collaboration, where boundary-pushing discovery happens — care and science working together.

Our motivation is triple aim:
Right care. Right cost. Right experience.

We are working across the care continuum to achieve Triple Aim through a constant emphasis on quality health care, cost of care, and the patient experience. We consistently seek out, and implement improvements in efficiency, cost effectiveness and provide high patient value while maintaining quality to ensure cancer patients get the care they need.
Our vision is our mission

At Seattle Cancer Care Alliance, our vision is to lead the world in translating scientific discovery into the prevention, diagnosis, treatment and cure of cancer by:

- Providing unparalleled patient and family centered care from a clinical, technological and human perspective
- Enhancing access to improved cancer interventions
- Advancing the standard of care, regionally and beyond
- Supporting clinical research and education

With our patients at the center of all we do, we drive superior outcomes through:

- Specialized cancer experts
- Creating the new standard of care through research
- Multi-disciplinary approach
- Comprehensive care

The true heart of our organization is powered by a deeply personal drive to keep the people we care for living longer, better, healthier lives. Above all, we exist to move patients forward, past boundaries and toward hope. Our patients exist beyond fear and live closer to discovery.

The intersection of compassion and hard science. That's where the real difference can be made today and how true progress happens tomorrow.
