

SCCA does not currently require staff to be furloughed after traveling. SCCA recommends following CDC and local public health department guidance for travel restrictions. This document contains general information and links to public health guidance for what to consider when traveling and how to protect yourself.

General travel guidance

Travel does increase your chances of getting infected and spreading COVID-19, and staying home is the best way to protect yourself and others from getting sick. However, if you do choose to travel you should understand the risk and following infection prevention precautions.

When traveling, follow the Six Cs. Always practice good hand hygiene and physical distancing whenever possible. Wear a face covering when physical distancing is difficult.

If you are experiencing symptoms, stay home, self-isolate and complete the employee health survey to be tested.

Local travel and commuting

Refer to CDC's guidance on how to Protect Yourself When Using Transportation, including how to protect yourself when using:

- Public transit
- Rideshare, taxi, limo for-hire vehicle passengers
- Shared bikes, scooters, skateboards and other micro-mobility devices
- Personal vehicles

Travel in Washington

Before traveling through Washington, understand the risk by considering if COVID-19 is spreading where you're going. Refer to Washington State COVID-19 Dashboard which can be sorted by county to view current trends and case counts. Another resource is Washington State's Travelers & Commuters site.

Travel in the United States

Refer to CDC's guidance for travel in the U.S.: Considerations for Travelers—Coronavirus in the US

While you are traveling, it is possible a state or local government may put into place travel restrictions, such as stay-at-home or shelter-in-place orders, mandated quarantines upon arrival or even state border closures. Plan to keep checking for updates as you travel.

- For up-to-date information and travel guidance, check the state or local health department where you are, along your route and at your planned destination.

International travel

If you're planning to travel outside of the country, be aware of the U.S. Department of State's Travel Advisories - COVID-19 Country Specific Information for international travel advisories and restrictions.

Refer to CDC's guidance for international travel:
